Opening Doors – Delivering homes and opportunities for all

Thursday 27 and Friday 28 April 2017

Despite political and economic uncertainties there are many reasons why the ALMO sector can justifiably celebrate its successes and adaptability. The sector continues in partnership with parent local authorities to diversify and deliver services that are inclusive and offer opportunities to all. Over the course of conference delegates will hear from a wide range of speakers and experts sharing their thoughts on how we can create a vision of housing that works for everyone in society and not just the few.

Set against a backdrop of Brexit and the implementation of new legislation speakers will share different approaches that councils and ALMOs are considering to increase the supply of homes, develop new products, and deliver services that enhance life chances and opportunities for future generations.

Across key note sessions and workshops more than twenty experts and practitioners will discuss the challenges and opportunities faced by ALMOs and their communities – sharing knowledge and expertise and encouraging debate among attendees.

The NFA Annual Conference is the essential event for ALMOs Board Members, Chief Executives and senior management teams and tenants. Exploring a wide range of themes relevant to today's operating environment and political climate and creating both formal and informal opportunities to network with peers.

An enjoyable part of annual conference is the drinks reception and gala dinner held on the evening of the 27 April. Here we take time to celebrate ALMO successes and unveil the finalist images of the 2017 photography competition. Attendees will have opportunity to cast their vote for the winning image (to be announced at dinner) before being entertained by our guest speaker.
